

ESCI Community Service Desk at Your Service

The new integrated European Student Card Initiative (ESCI) Community Service Desk is now operational and ready to process support requests from students, Higher Education Institutions and technical staff about services such as the Erasmus Dashboard, the Erasmus Without Paper (EWP) network, the Erasmus+ App and the Online Learning Agreement (OLA). This launch marks an important step towards improving the quality of service offered to universities and partners implementing the Erasmus digitalisation roadmap. Read more

Meet the newest member of the network!

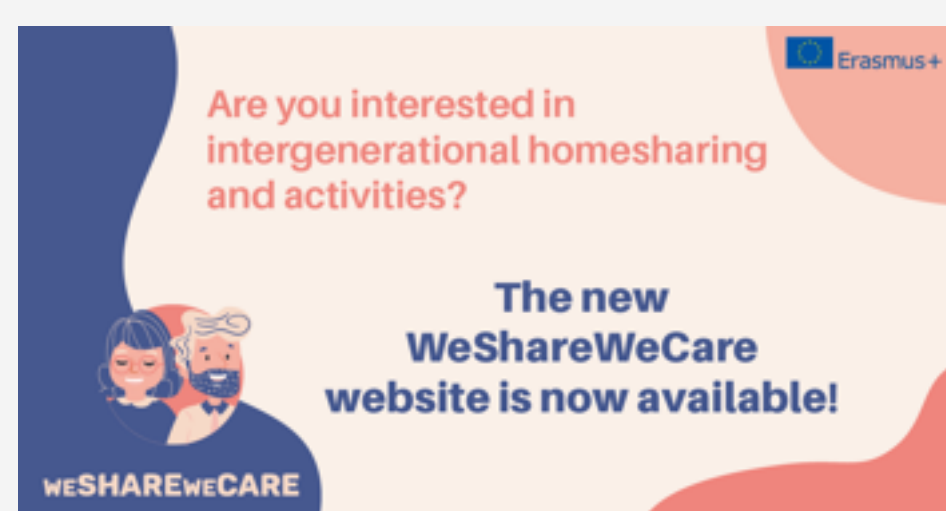

We are pleased to welcome a new member to the EUF network: the University of Paris-Saclay. Located in the south of Paris, the research university is notoriously known for its academics excellence and global visibility which contribute to providing cutting-edge specialised studies in Science and Engineering, Life Sciences and Health, and Social Sciences and Humanities. Erasmus+ Teaching Mobility platform.

Are you looking for teaching mobility opportunities? Does your institution intend to host guest lecturers? Find your match on the Erasmus+ Teaching Mobility Platform! This virtual marketplace is designed for academic staff and higher education institutions to find and offer teaching and training opportunities easily and effectively.

An intergenerational and intercultural experience.

Intergenerational and intercultural homesharing allows a reconnection between different generations and cultures. In addition, these types of programmes have the potential to be a suitable accommodation option for international students. Check the new webpage of the WeShareWeCare project and discover our report on interculturality and intergenerationality in Europe! Save the date: we look forward to welcoming you to the project's closing conference in Brussels on the 15th of June. More details coming soon!

Policy recommendations to fight disinformation.

Counteracting the spread of disinformation and misinformation requires an active engagement and concerted efforts from multiple stakeholders, including the media industry, Higher Education Institutions, and policymakers. For the past 3 years, ERUM project partners have been analysing the evolving trends on disinformation and misinformation in the academic and media landscapes. The lessons learnt, the insights gathered, and the resources produced have been transformed into a set of actionable policy recommendations which target mainly policy makers, higher education institutions and media organisations.

Explore living costs through the Erasmus+ App!

With the latest release of the Erasmus+ App, a new feature has been introduced to give students more information about their prospective destinations. Thanks to the living costs visualisation, learners can now look up many different European cities and see what their peers have indicated as monthly expenditures for rent, transport, and general cost of life. International Relations Officers can encourage their students to share this information via the Share button on the App, or simply check out the data provided by their peers on the living costs page. MyAcademicID hits 100,000 users!

Last month, the European Digital Student Service Infrastructure (EDSSI) project achieved an important milestone: the number of students using MyAcademicID to access Erasmus+ e-services and tools hit 100,000. This identity and access management solution plays a fundamental role in the digitalisation of the administrative processes related to student mobility programmes. Read more

OLA webinar and Train the Trainer package.

In response to the high demand for information about the Online Learning Agreement platform and the management of OLA in the Erasmus Dashboard, we made available the recording of one of the latest webinars held in March 2022 divided in chapters. Since many HEIs and National Agencies hold their own trainings, we also created a Train the trainers package with useful information, tutorials, and outlines of training sessions.

Towards Equity and Inclusion in HE in Europe.

Focusing on the topic of equity and inclusion in higher education in Europe, this Eurydice report analyses the current level of alignment of European higher education systems with the ten Principles & Guidelines agreed by EHEA as a blueprint to take forward the commitment of improving the social dimension.

Academic Freedom, Institutional Autonomy and Academic Integrity.

The European Students' Union just launched a survey aimed at gathering data on how academic freedom is perceived and to what extent it is institutionalised in the European academic landscape from a student perspective.
